information security for medium-sized businesses

Each entrepreneur knows, that the IT infrastructure of a company contributes decisively to its success. After all, in modern enterprises all important processes are IT based. From the receipt of order by e-mail to the programming of the machines and the administration of the customer data up to the accounting, the data processing plays a decisive role.

The better a company is positioned here, the more time employees can spend on what's important - the core business. In the best case, IT supports all business processes reasonable, leaving plenty of room for production. With the Managed Security Services, ConSecur offers you exactly this security: it designs, maintains and operates IT security concepts that guarantee that the infrastructure is always optimally secured and functional.

SUPPLIED ALL AROUND

Regardless of whether it is about designing a security concept, maintaining individual components or operating the entire infrastructure - the ConSecur experts have every aspect of the security in view. Due to the modular character, you can book exactly the features you really need.

Professional, regardless of manufacturer and efficient

You want the same level of security as a large corporation? With its managed security, ConSecur offers exactly that to medium-sized companies. Benefit from the experience we have gained in our various large-scale customer projects.

Our experienced IT consultants take care of every business from the inventory and lead it in five clearly defined steps to a complete IT security infrastructure. Our consultants work as thoroughly as they do results: components that already meet all requirements are left in the system and carefully integrated into the new concept. When the consultants implement new solutions, they advise manufacturers independently. A permanent contact person guarantees that every ConSecur customer receives the optimal support. The service center is also available around the clock. In order to identify developments and optimization potential at an early stage, the consultants evaluate all data on a monthly basis and inform you about the status of your system on a quarterly basis.

We are happy to show you how our solutions can improve your IT security so that you can focus on your core business.
